Terms and Conditions:

- COPYRIGHT: The ARGUS recognises the contributor as the author of works (images, video, audio, text) submitted for publication by the ARGUS. The ARGUS recognises the author as the copyright holder of the work. The ARGUS will archive, publish, re-publish but not profit from nor on-sell or re-distribute the author's work as per the author's indications.
- ALTERATIONS: The ARGUS will not alter in an un-ethical manner, any of the work submitted by the author.
- EDITING: The ARGUS editorial staff reserve the right to edit all work submitted for factuality, clarity, fairness and accuracy. The ARGUS editorial staff reserve the right to crop and/or colour-correct images.
- PHOTO CREDIT: All published usages of works will be accompanied by written credit to the author. Authors are required to provide contact and website URL information for publication and contact purposes.
- TRANSFER AND ASSIGNMENT: The ARGUS may not assign or transfer this agreement or any rights granted under it. The author is encouraged to include contact details in the event that a third-party inquires after the work. It will be then up to the author to negotiate with any third-party for opportunities. The ARGUS will charge no commission for work promoted through its publications.
- AUTHENTICITY OF WORK: In submitting work to the ARGUS, the author assumes all responsibility of authenticity in the making of the works, the recording of the works (visual, audio, text) and in securing relevant permissions from people or sensitive places depicted in the works. The ARGUS holds no responsibility for publishing work which later turns to be fraudulent or misrepresentative in the depiction of individuals, people or events. In this, the author is solely responsible for the accuracy and credibility of the works, and will accept all legal responsibility for all works submitted.
